This year, students and chaperones will have seven tours to choose from at Michigan State University. Please pick your top three (place your first pick in the first slot, etc). We will do our best to accommodate your top pick, but there is limited space. Tours will be assigned on a first-come-first-served basis. MSAN will also consider adult/student/ ratios when assigning tours to chaperones.

Michigan State University tour experiences:

- A. History Race & Race Relations in America: This tour track will immerse those who want to understand more about the history of race and race relations in America and how it affects our societies today. This will interest those wishing to know more about history, humanities, African and African American history, philosophy, English, and more. Participating colleges are: College of Arts and Letters - <https://cal.msu.edu/> and Residential College of Arts and Humanities - <https://rcah.msu.edu/index.html>
- B. Injustices in Education: This tour track is for those who are interested in exploring the role education and educators play in addressing the injustices that we see in our society today. Participating college: College of Education - <https://www.education.msu.edu/>
- C. Social Justice: This tour will allow those interested to learn more about how the social injustices that exist in our world today are discussed and examined through media and its personnel. Those interested in media, and mass communications will find this track fitting. Participating College: College of Communication Arts and Sciences: <https://comartsci.msu.edu/>
- D. Human Interactions and Understanding Identities: This tour will be of interest to those exploring an interest in identities and how the intersections of these identities impact human interactions. Those who have an interest in psychology, sociology, gender studies anthropology, and more would find interest in this track. Participating college: College of Social Science: <https://socialscience.msu.edu/>
- E. Disproportionality in Access: (Medical Care, Wealth, Food, etc.) - This tour will explore how STEM fields research and work to address the issues and injustices in access to important areas that affect all individuals in our society today. Those interested in engineering, science and medical fields will find this of interest. Participating colleges: College of Natural Science: <https://natsci.msu.edu/>, College of Nursing: <https://nursing.msu.edu/>, College of Agriculture and Natural Resources: <https://www.canr.msu.edu/>, College of Engineering: <https://engineering.msu.edu/>, and College of Human Medicine: <https://humanmedicine.msu.edu/>
- F. Across the Diaspora: Connections through Language: This tour track will immerse those interested in learning about the connections that humans have across the diaspora. Through language and cultural experiences, learn more about the similarities in experiences and how we are all connected. Those who have an interest in studying language, humanities, history, and anthropology would take interest in this track. Participating college: College of Arts and Letters: <https://cal.msu.edu/>
- G. The Arts through Activism: This tour track will be of interest to those who want to know about the arts and how it has played a role in activism for decades. Participating colleges: College of Music: <https://music.msu.edu/> and College of Arts and Letters: <https://cal.msu.edu/>
